MUST EXPLAIN HIS ACTION FEDERAL COURT

LAWYER MAGOON MAY FACE GRAND

HIGH SHERIFF SATISFIED THAT TREASURER WRIGHT WAS AID-ED IN HIS ESCAPE-WILL HAVE GRAND JURY INVESTIGATE.

The S. S. Alameda arrived last night from San Francisco with the confirmation of the Star's exclusive account of the escape of Treasurer William H. Wright, aboard her last month. As the result of this positive confirmation of the Star's news, J. Alfred Magoon may be indicted by the territorial grand jury for his alleged share in assisting the defaulting treasurer to escape.

Wright's presence aboard the Alameda last month was not discovered until the second day out from Horolulu. Just who stowed the man away is not known now by the authorities. The members of the steamship crew are keeping very mum about their acquaintance with the absconding treasurer. In any event, Wright went aboard the vessel and got into the steerage department and got into the steerage department but when he was discovered he was hiding in one of the cabins. It was purser Smith who discovered the man. Wright was found in Cabin No. 7. The absconding treasurer was lying in the top bunk. To Smith's request for his ticket, Wright answered that he had come aboard quite hurriedly which was certainly the truth, and had failed to purchase a ticket. He tendered $75 to Mr. Smith however as passage money. "What name?" asked the purser. "William Harrison," was the answer, and it was so entered on the record of the vessel, Wright probably chose Harrison as it is his middle name and en-rison as it is his middle name and en-tered his mind as the most natural allas to give. The absconding treasurer said that he was III. He never left his cabin during the entire trip and while there had his mustasche shaved off and his hair closely cut. The ship's barber denied this performed having office for Wright but added that if he had, he would not tell of it. Wright had to go into quarantine for two or three days after the vessel reached San Francisco. Purser Smith was shown a picture of Wright this morning and said that he was positive it was a likeness of the same man who had given the name of Harrison.

"I am now thoroughly satisfied," said High Sheriff Brown this morning "that Wright escaped to San Francisco on the Wright escaped to San Francisco on the Alameda. This fact has been proven beyond and reasonable doubt. I was considerably disappointed however to learn that Wright was to be detained only two or three days in quarantine after reaching San Francisco, on account of his not having been passed by the local quarantine officer. I had been told that Wright would probably be detained at least seven days in quarantine and it was on this information. rantine and it was on this information that I relied when Officer McDuffie in plague times. Judge De Boit this morning ruled that Ah Keona, the Chinese charged with arson, was entitled to bail, in spite of the fact that the death penalty may be imposed in the event of a conviction. The map will show every block in detail, with every lot and building numbered and by reference to a "key" it will be possible to find the name of the owner of any building or lot, as well as the name of the occupant.

The city is now divided into twelve sanitary inspectors. In addition to their duties of looking for insanitary places and ordering nuisances abated, the inspectors have been instructed to

MAY BE PART OF CONSPIRACY TO DOWN THE OFFICER-OTHER ARTICLES STOLEN ALSO-JEW-ELRY WORTH $1,000 MISSING.

General Nelson A. Miles, the commander of the United States Army, was robbed by a burglar last night. The exact extent of the robbery is not known but it was very daring in exeknows but it was very daring in exe-cution. The theft occurred at the Ha-walian Hotel under the very noses of General Miles and his staff of officers. Lieutemant Colonel M. P. Maus the chief aide de camp and private secre-tary to General Miles was also a victim of the thief as was Mrs. Maus. Mrs. Mnus was probably the greatest loser from the standpoint of actual money but inasmuch as some very valuable but inasmuch as some very valuable documents of a private and military character were taken from General Miles, the extent of the robbery may be of even greater loss to him than to those who lost jewelry and clothes.

The apartments of General and Mrs.
Miles were not entered however, the thief entering the rooms of Colonel and Mrs. Maus. The robbery occurred some time between the hours of 8 o'clock and 10 o'clock last fight. After General Miles and party had returned from their visit to Pearl Harbor a dance and reception were announced for the evening at the Hawatian Hotel. Colonel and Mrs. Mans occupied the cottage on Richard street opposite Central Union church. Inasmuch as Colonel Mans is the chief aide to General Miles many of the private documents and papers belonging to General Miles are in the care of Colonel Maus. It so happened last evening that a small valies containing a number of such documents had been taken by Colonel Maus and left in one of the rooms of the Richard street cottage. Colonel and Mrs. Maus had dressed Colonel and Mrs. Maus had dressed for the dance and about 8 o'clock last evening they went to 'the hotel lanat to artend the dance. It so happened that Colonel Maus had taken no cigarrettes with him and about 10 o'clock he remembered that he had left a package of them in the little value in which had been placed General Miles papers. There were also a watch and various other articles of minor value.

There were also a watch and various other articles of minor value.
Colonel Maus went to his room to get these cigarettes and there discovered that the valise was not in the particular place where he had last left it. A search of the place was made and then it was discovered that the valise had evidently been stolen. Mrs. Maus happened to come into the room about this time. She also hunted for the missing valise. To her consternation, she discovered that her large dress suit she discovered that her large dress suit case in which she kept some very handsome clothes and jewelry had also been abstracted.

The authorities were notified. Evidently the thief secured entrance throught some window or door which had inadvertently been left unlatched. There was no evidence to indicate that the entrance had been forced. No trace of the thief or thieves which ever the case may be, was secured.

There is one very peculiar circumstance connected with the affair. This is the fact that the value in which were private papers belonging to General Miles was taken. The trunks of Col-onel Maus were both unlocked and were within easy access to the robber. So far as the owners could determine, however, no attention was paid to the trunks. Only the valies and the dress suit cases were taken. Both of these were locked. It has been suggested that inasmuch as certain people who have been opposed to General Miles, might be very anxious to secure access to his private documents and papers, it is not impossible that the robbery last night may be part of a deep laid.
